Dear San Jose community, and city govt,

The city of San Jose, has held a few public meetings, throughout August, to discuss some interesting ideas, from the federal housing agency HUD.

It is to address, future homelessness and low-income housing needs, in this time of Covid-19.

With the help of the public, this past month, I hope good ideas & good plans, are lining up, and being understood, by all sides.

With meaningful FAIR housing ideas of the last several years, to rely on - it seems important, the city of San Jose Housing Dept., learn how the public meetings of August 2020, can be a part of ideas, and open discussion, of future SJ city govt. housing plans.

Sincerely,
Blair Beekman

Dear San Jose community, and city govt,

A reminder, mixed income ideas, and affordable housing ideas, of very low, & extremely low income, was growing in good terms, pre Covid-19, in Santa Clara Co.

And as important ways to address, the concepts of equity. And more practical, positive, long term ideas, of community sustainability.

In this time of Covid-19, and in trying to understand thể obvious recession period, we have started -

It seems, important to begin to make clear, this current pandemic can possibly be brought under control, in a few years.

I feel, to continue with our good practices and ideals, pre Covid-19 - is an important, caring way, to address & develop, the future economy

sincerely,
blair beekman
