

Attachment B: Staff Analysis of Name Suggestions Received and Analysis

Staff reviewed the name suggestions for compliance with the City's Naming Policy and provides this information to inform the public and decision makers on qualifying names for the park.

Key

Name aligns with the City's Naming Policy (City Council Policy Number 7-5). The Parks and Recreation Commission can recommend one of these names to the City Council. The City Council can also adopt one of these names.

Name does NOT align with the City's Naming Policy (City Council Policy Number 7-5)

Name qualifies, but was combined (Similar names were combined into one name for voting)

#	Proposed Name (As submitted by respondent)	Reasoning (As submitted by respondent)	Does Name Align with the City's Naming Policy? (Staff analysis)
1	1343	(The survey respondent did not state the reason for this name suggestion.)	Yes, because it is a geographic description and refers to the park's address at 1343 The Alameda. However, it is questionable whether the use of a number is an appropriate name for a park.
2	Alameda or Hanchett Park	Because of the location.	Yes, because it references the geographical location of the park by referencing the neighborhood surrounding the park and the nearby streets.
3	Alameda Parklet	It tells the location.	Yes, because it references the geographical location of the park by referencing one of the neighborhoods surrounding the park and the nearby streets.
4	Billy De Frank Park	Billy De Frank Center is down the street and is another way to show that San José, particularly The Alameda, is a welcoming neighborhood to all.	Yes, because Billy De Frank is an individual that has been deceased for more than five years.  William Price (a.k.a. Billy De Frank) was a popular African American LGBTQ+ activist <sup>1</sup> .
5	Bird Park	Laurie Bird leads the Hanchett community association, and she has been diligent in her support of the community.	No, the person is not deceased.
6	Camino Park	Using the Camino Real. Whatever you pick, don't pick a person's name as you'll have to rename it in a few years when we learn they did something wrong.	Yes, because it references a geographical reference point, the El Camino Real. The Alameda becomes El Camino Real as it heads north into Santa Clara and up the peninsula.
7	Cato Park	"Cato" means knowledgeable and wise. Great name especially if you have a learning vibe.	No, because it does not align with the policy criteria.
8	Corner Pocket on the 'Meda	It's a cute way of saying what it is.	Yes, because it references the geographical location of the park by referencing The Alameda.
9	Fairground	Relate to history.	This name is too similar to the Santa Clara County Fairgrounds located on Tully Road.

			The name would otherwise qualify because it references a historical geographical reference point near the park site, the original fairgrounds site, known as “Agricultural Park,” located between The Alameda, Race Street, Park Avenue, and Hester Avenue <sup>2</sup> .
10	Fossey Park	Dian Fossey went to SJSU and helped with Gorilla conservation.	Yes, because Dian Fossey is an individual that has been deceased for more than five years.  Dian Fossey is well known for her work with gorilla conservation. She attended San José State University when it was known as San José State College <sup>3</sup> .
11	Frank Delos Wolfe Park	Frank Delos Wolfe is the famed San José architect who built many of the great homes and bungalows in Hanchett Park. The look and feel of this area is literally his design. He is not honored anywhere in the city that I am aware of, what better place than one of the neighborhoods he has such a distinct mark on.	Yes, because he is an individual that has been deceased for more than five years.  Frank Delos Wolfe was a well-known architect that designed many homes in the San José area in the Neoclassical, Prairie, and the Spanish Revival styles <sup>4</sup> . He partnered with Charles McKenzie to design homes in Hanchett Park <sup>5</sup> .
12	Frank Fiscalini	Frank was the prior councilmember and is responsible for establishing the Billy De Frank Center on the Alameda.	No, unable to confirm nominee is deceased.
13	Fredericksburg Garden	As we grow, we need to make a connection with our community’s history. It gives us a connection to our essence, our soul.	Yes, because refers to a historical prominent geographic feature or local reference point.  The Fredericksburg Brewery, later known as the Fredericksburg Brewing Co, stood on the Alameda between 1869 and 1918 <sup>6</sup> .
14	Fredericksburg Park	Historical. Area used to be a brewery named Fredericksburg.	Yes, because it refers to a historical prominent geographic feature or local reference point.

15	Geographic Reference Point	Alameda Park	No, because it does not align with the policy criteria.
16	Hanchett Park	(Twenty respondents suggested this name. Fourteen individuals cited the geographical location as the reasoning for this name suggestion, pointing to the street name and adjacent neighborhood name. Two individuals identified the name as historical. One individual noted that “we don’t really have a park in the Hanchett Park neighborhood so this could be fitting.” Two individuals referenced Lewis E. Hanchett, the original developer of Hanchett Residence Park. <sup>0</sup> )	Yes, because of the geographic reference point. The name references a nearby street and neighborhood name. However, this name may have implications that do not align with the City’s commitment to racial equity.  See the research on Lewis E. Hanchett contained in Attachment C <sup>7</sup> .
17	Hanchett Community Corner	(The respondent did not provide a reasoning for the name suggestion.)	Yes, because of the geographic reference point. The name references a nearby street and neighborhood name. However, this name may have implications that do not align with the City’s commitment to racial equity.  See the research on Lewis E. Hanchett in Attachment C.
18	Hanchett Neighborhood Park	(The respondent did not provide a reasoning for the name suggestion.)	Yes, because of the geographic reference point. The name references a nearby street and neighborhood name. However, this name may have implications that do not align with the City’s commitment to racial equity.  See the research on Lewis E. Hanchett in Attachment C.
19	Hanchett Parklet	Because this is the entrance to the Hanchett Park neighborhood.	Yes, because of the geographic reference point. The name references a nearby street and neighborhood name. However, this name may have implications that do not align with the City’s commitment to racial equity.  Note: See the research on Lewis E. Hanchett in Attachment C.
20	Hanchett Plaza	Named for location and purpose.	Yes, because of the geographic reference point. The name references a nearby street and neighborhood name. However, this name may have implications that do not align with the City’s commitment to racial equity.  Note: See the research on Lewis E. Hanchett in Attachment C.

Hanchett in Attachment C.
23	Joey Franco Park	Local market once located next to the park.	Yes, because it references a former geographic reference point, the PW Supermarket <sup>8</sup> . Joey Franco, one of the owners of the supermarket, has been deceased for more than five years <sup>9</sup> .  Very little information was found on Joey Franco. More research should be done to determining his contributions.
24	John McLaren Park	Relevant to Hanchett Park neighborhood.	Yes, because he is an individual that has been deceased for more than five years.  John McLaren was the landscape architect that designed the streetscapes for the Hanchett Residence Park development in 1907 <sup>10</sup> . He is better known for his design of Golden Gate Park in San Francisco <sup>11</sup> .
25	Iola Williams	https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/iola_williams	No, an individual who has not been deceased five years or more.  Iola Williams could be considered for a future park naming. Iola Williams was a civil rights activist and was San José's first African-American City Councilmember. She passed away in 2019 <sup>12</sup> .
26	Muwekma Ohlone Park	It honors the people who lived here before.	Yes, because it reflects a name of historical significance – the original habitants of the area.

42	Something Hispanic could be appropriate. Paseo Park...	It is a nod to the Spanish history of the area but also means "walk" which suggests the spot is looking to make things more pedestrian friendly.	No, because no specific name was suggested. It does not align with the policy criteria.

43	Something honoring history of San José and the Alameda		No, because no specific name was suggested. It does not align with the policy criteria.
45	Streetcar Bend	The Alameda used to have streetcars that went all the way to SF. This area represents the only major bend in that path. This would be a good name (and plaque) to have in the area to commemorate the loss of a public good (accessible transport) with the installation of another.	Yes, because of a historical geographic reference point and a historic prominent feature.  The Alameda had a rich history of trolley service from 1868 until 1938 <sup>15</sup> . The San José and Santa Clara Railroad, which operated along The Alameda, was the first interurban railroad service in the state <sup>16</sup> .
46	Susan O'Malley Park	I knew Susan O'Malley when she was working at the Institute of Contemporary Art in San José. She was an artist herself and was born and raised in San José.
