TO: HONORABLE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL

FROM: Historic Landmarks
Commission

SUBJECT: SEE BELOW

DATE: April 26, 2019

COUNCIL DISTRICT: 7

SUBJECT: HISTORIC LANDMARK DESIGNATION (FILE NO. HL19-001) FOR THE “CHIECHI HOUSE” AT HISTORY PARK SAN JOSE

RECOMMENDATION

The Historic Landmarks Commission recommends that the City Council adopt a resolution designating the Chiechi House located at 1650 Senter Road (History Park) as a City Landmark.

OUTCOME

Designation of the building as a City Landmark would allow the property owner, History San José, to be eligible to obtain grant funding through the County of Santa Clara for the rehabilitation and maintenance of the structure and ensure preservation of a unique National Style of architecture portraying the historical development of the City of San José from the 1870s to the 1880s. Any exterior alterations to the structure would require the issuance of a Historic Preservation Permit.

BACKGROUND

On October 9, 2018, an application was submitted to nominate the “Chiechi House” as a City Landmark. Based on the information in the historic evaluation prepared by Bonnie Bamburg of Urban Programmers, the Chiechi House qualifies as a City Landmark based on three out of eight (1, 4 & 6) criteria under the Historic Preservation Ordinance Chapter 13.48.110(H) of the San José Municipal Code:

- Criterion 1: Its character, interest, or value as part of the local, regional, state or national history, heritage, or culture.

The Chiechi House is an example of a contributing structure in History Park. This park district has a collection of relocated and recreated buildings portraying the historical development of San José from the 1870s to the 1880s. Its location in History Park is significant as it preserves the public's understanding of the past and exemplifies an architectural example of the typical 1876 rural farmhouse.

The Chiechi House exhibits the Early American National Style of architecture representing a semi-rural farmhouse built in circa 1876. It is associated with the beginning of the Horticultural Expansion era in San José when agriculture was the basis for economic growth. The association with the era is seen in the architectural style and the construction materials and artisanship of the house. Few houses of this style remain in San José and of those that do, alterations have negatively changed the appearance.

Criterion 4: Its exemplification of the cultural, economic, social, or historic heritage of the city of San José.

The Chiechi House is one of the oldest houses in San José that retains integrity, and the house provides current and future generations with an understanding of the architecture, materials and craftsmanship used in residential building in the mid-1870s. In the present location at History Park, the setting is with other houses from the mid-1860 to the late 1880s that form a grouping of residential styles that were part of San Jose's architectural heritage.

The Chiechi House in History Park further meets the criteria for a City Landmark because it represents the story of two immigrant families who settled in San José and contributed to the growth and culture of the community. It was also the home of Dr. Matilda Campbell who was one of the early women physicians in San José. She opened a senior care home for her elderly patients.

- Criterion 6: Its embodiment of distinguishing characteristics of an architectural type or specimen.

The Chiechi House in History Park exhibits distinctive characteristics of the Early American National Style of architecture. The house provides information about the living conditions and type of farm houses constructed in the 1870s. The building continues to provide information about early San José residences, the materials used, and how they were constructed.

The Chiechi House is eligible to be a San José Historic Landmark because it is one of the very few examples of the Early American National Style of architecture that remain in the area, and the building still retains a high degree of integrity. Of over 200 designated Landmarks in the City, very few are from the Early American era and none are examples of the National Style of the mid-1870s.

On April 3, 2019, the Historic Landmarks Commission held a Public Hearing on the proposed Landmark Designation for the "Chiechi House." The Historic Landmarks Commission found that the house meets the eligibility criteria of a City Landmark and recommended approval (5-0-2) of the City Landmark designation to the City Council.

Public Testimony

Fernando R. Zazueta, president of the La Raza Historical Society of Santa Clara Valley, gave public testimony explaining briefly his efforts to restore the house, which is owned by the City, with funds from County grants for the re-use as an office for the non-profit. He added that since its relocation in 1976 to the present location in History Park, the house had not been maintained and requires additional funds to restore the house.

Staff and Historic Landmarks Commission Discussion

The Commissioners commended the future tenant, La Raza Historical Society of Santa Clara Valley, for their efforts on restoration and maintenance of the Chiechi House.

ANALYSIS

A complete analysis, including the General Plan and the Historic Preservation Ordinance conformance, are attached in the Historic Landmarks Commission staff report.

POLICY ALTERNATIVES

The City Council could opt to decline to designate the Chiechi House as a City Landmark Structure. In such case, the building could undergo exterior alterations in the future without the need of a Historic Preservation Permit and the building would not be eligible for County grant funds.

EVALUATION AND FOLLOW UP

If the nomination is approved, the subject site will be designated a City Landmark. All work on the structure would require a Historic Preservation Permit/Adjustment, and will need to comply with the Secretary of Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties.

PUBLIC OUTREACH

Staff followed the public notification requirements of Section 13.48.110 of the San Jose Municipal Code. A public hearing notice for the nomination was published in a local newspaper and posted at the site. Information about the proposed designation and the associated public hearings has been made available through the Planning Division website. Staff has been available to answer questions.

COORDINATION

This memorandum was coordinated with the City Attorney's Office.

CEQA

The designation will not have a negative effect and it has been determined exempt from the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), pursuant to Section 15331 of the State CEQA Guidelines. The project is limited to maintenance, repair, stabilization, rehabilitation, restoration, preservation, conservation, or reconstruction of historical resources in a manner consistent with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

On October 9, 2018, the applicant submitted an application to designate the “Chiechi House” as a City Landmark.

The subject house is in the History Park located at 1650 Senter Road (see Figure 1). The Chiechi House is a contributing building in the History Park which is a district of relocated and recreated buildings important in portraying the historical development of San Jose from 1870 to 1880s. “The Chiechi House” is significant to the history and heritage of San Jose as a mid-1870s house in the National Style, of which very few exist. Its location in the History Park is significant as it preserves the public’s understanding of the past and exemplifies an Early American architectural style in both materials and artisanship.

The house was built in 1876 by John and Jean Campbell, who emigrated from Canada. John was a retired cloth merchant and Jean was a homemaker who took care of their six children. They sold their house before the 1900s. John’s two sisters Emma and Matilda Campbell, also lived nearby. Emma became an artist and Matilda a physician. The property changed owners several times until it was purchased by Mike Chiechi in 1911, who emigrated from Italy. The address of the house listed in the 1915 Sanborn Map was 820 Northrup Street, at the intersection of Paula Street. Mike was a laborer in the fruit orchards and Maria was a homemaker who raised their three children. Mike and Maria lived in the house until their deaths in 1935 and 1952 and were survived by their children who lived in the house until 1973. The property was sold in 1973 and the house was donated to the City of San José to be placed in History Park as an architectural example of the typical 1876, rural farmhouse.

The architecture of the house exhibits National style. The house is a two-story L-shaped plan with an intersecting gable roof and a front entry porch that covers almost half of the front façade. The other half has a bay window with three double-hung wood windows with decorative shutters on each side (see Figure 2). The remaining walls of the house are also finished with horizontal wood siding, double hung wood windows with decorative shutters. The house has a gable roof finished with standard composition shingle roofing material. The rear porch was enclosed with a later addition and the walls are finished with vertical siding with a bank of square pane windows and a pitched roof. The detailing on this addition is with a very plain fascia board (see Figure 3). The shed on the west side at the rear is finished with narrow vertical board siding.

ANALYSIS

Designated City Landmarks require Historic Preservation (HP) Permits for City approval of any exterior changes to the structure and ancillary construction on the lot.

Envision San José 2040 General Plan Conformance

The Chiechi house is in the History Park which is consistent with the site's General Plan Land Use/Transportation Diagram designation of Open Space, Parklands, and Habitat. The lands under this designation can be publicly- or privately-owned areas that are intended for low intensity uses. Lands in this designation are typically devoted to open space, parks, recreation areas, trails, habitat buffers, nature preserves and other permanent open space areas. History Park is adjacent to Kelly Park and Museum which is an extension of the open space. Additionally, the project's landmark designation promotes the following policies of the General Plan:

Historic Preservation Goal LU-13 – Landmarks and Districts: Preserve and enhance historic landmarks and districts to promote a greater sense of historic awareness and community identity and contribute toward a sense of place.

1. Historic Preservation Policy LU-13.1: Preserve the integrity and fabric of candidate or designated Historic Districts.

Analysis: The designation of this house as a historic landmark and its recognized historic value would ensure the preservation of a unique architectural style important to San Jose. The Chiechi House is being evaluated within the context of Horticultural Expansion era, 1870-1918, and specifically the period of significance 1870-1973. The appropriate theme is Residential Architecture. In 1973, the Chiechi House was approved for relocation by the San José City Council and accepted as a fine example of mid-1870s residential architecture to be installed in History Park (San Jose Historical Museum). The building was considered an important resource in the City's collection of buildings (see Figure 5) at the History Park.

2. Historic Preservation Policy LU -13.13: Foster the rehabilitation of buildings, structures, areas, places, and districts of historic significance. Utilize incentives permitting flexibility as to their uses; transfer of development rights; tax relief for designated landmarks and districts; easements; alternative building code provisions for the reuse of historic structures; and financial incentives.

Analysis: By encouraging the preservation of this house through the City Landmark Designation process, the City is preserving and fostering the architectural history of Horticultural Expansion era of San José. After the designation of this house as a City Landmark, any exterior modifications would require review by the Historic Landmarks Commission. The building is currently vacant and is proposed to be re-used as an office (see Figure 5), pending rehabilitation work.

Historic Preservation Ordinance Conformance for Historic Landmark Nomination

Per the Historic Preservation Ordinance (Municipal Code Chapter 13.48), the Commission may consider, among other relevant factors, the following criteria in making the findings that a proposed landmark has special historical, architectural, cultural, aesthetic, or engineering interest or value of an historical nature:

1. Its character, interest, or value as part of the local, regional, state or national history, heritage or culture;
2. Its location as a site of a significant historic event;
3. Its identification with a person or persons who significantly contributed to the local, regional, state or national culture and history;
4. Its exemplification of the cultural, economic, social or historic heritage of the city of San José;
5. Its portrayal of the environment of a group of people in an era of history characterized by a distinctive architectural style;
6. Its embodiment of distinguishing characteristics of an architectural type or specimen;
7. Its identification as the work of an architect or master builder whose individual work has influenced the development of the city of San José; and

8. Its embodiment of elements of architectural or engineering design, detail, materials, or craftsmanship which represents a significant architectural innovation or which is unique.

Based on the information in the historic evaluation prepared by Bonnie Bamburg of Urban Programmers, dated October 9, 2018, the Chiechi House qualifies as a City Landmark based on three out of eight (1, 4 & 6) criteria under the Historic Preservation Ordinance Chapter 13.48:

Criterion 1: Its character, interest, or value as part of the local, regional, state or national history, heritage, or culture.

The Chiechi House is a very good example of a contributing structure in the History Park. This park district has a collection of relocated and recreated buildings important in portraying the historical development of San José from the 1870s to 1880s. The Chiechi house exhibits the Early American National Style of architecture representing semi-rural farmhouse built in circa 1876. It is associated with the beginning of the Horticultural Expansion era in San José. Agriculture was the basis for economic growth during that period. The association with the era is seen in the architectural style and the construction materials and artisanship of the house. Few houses of this style remain in San José and of those that do, alterations have changed the appearance. This property is a fine example.

Criterion 4: Its exemplification of the cultural, economic, social, or historic heritage of the city of San José.

The Chiechi House is one of the oldest houses in San José that retains integrity and the house provides current and future generations with an understanding of the architecture, materials and craftsmanship used in residential building in the mid-1870s. In the present location at History Park, the setting is with other houses from the mid-1860 to the late 1880s that form a grouping of residential styles that were part of San Jose's architectural heritage.

The Chiechi House in History Park further meets the criteria for a City Landmark because it represents the story of two immigrant families who settled in San José and contributed to the growth and culture of the community. It was also the home of Dr. Matilda Campbell who is one of the early women physicians in San José. She opened a senior care home for her elderly patients.

The Chiechi House in History Park exhibits distinctive characteristics of the early American National Style of architecture. The house provides information about the living conditions and type of farm houses constructed in the 1870s. The building continues to provide information about early San José residences, the materials used, and how they were constructed.

The Chiechi House is eligible to be a San Jose Historic Landmark because it is one of the very few examples of the Early American National Style of architecture that remain in the area, and the building still retains a high degree of integrity. Of over 200 designated Landmarks in the City, very few are from the Early American era and none are examples of the National Style of the mid-1870s.

CALIFORNIA ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ACT (CEQA)

The project's recommended action is categorically exempt from provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), pursuant to Section 15331 of the State CEQA Guidelines.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTIFICATION

Staff followed the public notification requirements of Section 13.48.110 of the San José Municipal Code. A notice of this hearing appeared in a newspaper of general record at least 10 days prior to the hearing, a mailing of the notice to the property manager and occupants, and posting the notification of the hearing along the frontage of the site. The staff report is also posted on the City's website. Staff has been available to respond to questions from the public.

roofs and a the porch extending across half of the front façade the other half the projecting section. The porch is covered by a slanted roof and supported by four square posts and two pilaster on each end. The posts have angled braces and small moulding to form capitals at the top. The wall behind the porch has one tall narrow double-hung window and the front door with a transom above. These have very simple flat board frames. The decorative element is turned baluster as part of the porch railing. The porch is raised three wood, bull-nosed steps to the wood floor of the porch. This railing appears a later addition. The other half of the facade exhibits a slightly slanted bay window with three narrow double-hung windows covered by an angled roof above a plain frieze. Decorative shutters are on each side. The slanted bay extends to the ground and is an element of the more decorative Italianate style. The original building had panels under the bay windows; the current siding of dropped horizontal siding extends to the bottom of the wall. Centered in the second level is one tall double-hung window with decorative shutters on each side. The main body of the building is sheathed entirely with dropped-horizontal siding with plain board framing on the corners and a wider trim board at the junction of the roof and wall. The rear porch is vertical siding and the shed on the west side is yet another vertical, narrow board siding, The left side facade has two tall double-hung windows on the lower level and one over the rear lower floor window on the upper level. The right side façade has three tall double-hung windows on the lower level. The rear is a single story extension that has a bank of square pane windows and a pitched roof. The detailing on this addition is very plain fascia board. The roof is composition shingles.

The house retains integrity and is a very good example of a rural farmhouse in the National Style from the mid-1870s.

Over the years, Michael is listed the San Jose City Directories as a farmer or working in the fruit orchards. Working in the fruit orchards may have been with his brother who had a large orchard on Meridian Ave. Michael Chiechi passed away June 21, 1935.

Maria lived in the house with her daughter Grace and son Nicholas and his wife Melina. Nicholas became a plaster with his own company and Melina was employed in different shops until she opened her own Melina's Corset and Lingerie Shop. Grace worked at the Temple Laundry becoming a supervisor. She also worked in canneries and in Melina's shop. After Maria (Mary) Chiechi passed away at age 73, on March 28, 1952, her family, including grandson Nicholas Jr. continued to live in the house. The property was sold in 1973 and the house was donated to the City of San Jose to be placed in History Park as an architectural example of the typical 1876, rural farmhouse.

The Chiechi family were prominent fruit ranchers in San Jose. Michael Chiechi's brother Leo was a fruit rancher at 535 Meridian Avenue. Other members of the family owned fruit ranches on Cherry Avenue and S. Cypress Avenue.

The historical context in which to consider the Chiechi House is the Horticultural Expansion 1870-1918

As the name implies this was a period of dramatic growth as the Santa Clara Valley became a major supplier of fresh and processed fruit for the nation and internationally. Fruit orchards and vineyards covered the Valley floor and into the hills. It was the spring blossoms and ready employment that gave the area the title as the "Valley of Heart's Delight". Although limited quantities of fruit had been grown beginning with the Spanish settlers who arrived in the late 1700s this is the era when families came from Europe to plant and tend the orchards that would become the backbone of the era's economic growth.

Grape growing found an instant market in the late 1870s, and into the 1880s because wine was in high demand and phylloxera had devastated the vineyards of Europe from 1860-1880. In the Valley fruit that could not be dried, remained a seasonal commodity. "By the end of the 1880's Santa Clara County had 15,000 acres of vine and 478 viticulturists. producing 2,500,000 gallons of wine a year" (Arbuckle 1984:176). Most vineyards were less than 100 acres. Orchards spreading in all directions spawned small towns with services and conveniences. Berryessa in the east, The Willows in the west, Saratoga and Los Gatos, were all connected by fruit orchards. The most popular fruit was the small French prune imported by Louis and Pierre Pellier, known as the "la Petite Prune d'Agen" a fruit that would be in high demand all over the world and grow to be a $43,000,000 a-year- industry in California (Arbuckle, 1984:163). Drying fruit was a relatively natural and low cost process, but it was subject to weather conditions and not suitable for all types of fruit. The abundance of the orchards demanded a new process to preserve the fruit for sale.

Food processing started in France in the 1850's. However, locally it was Dr. James Dawson who invented the process in his home laboratory in 1871. Companies soon formed to manufacture all types of equipment to support the growing agricultural industry; orchard sprayers, food processing machinery, and tractors all were made in San Jose. With superb growing conditions and land for vast orchards, the canning industry grew quickly in San Jose, as did support industries of box and basket making, and can and glass container factories. Mergers of the smaller or specialized companies led to some of the largest corporations, such as FMC, that started as Bean Pump and Spray Company merging with Anderson -Barngrover, Hull and Cunningham. During the same period, vineyards were also bountiful and Charles LeFranc (Almaden Vineyards), Paul Masson, Pierre Mirassou and William Wehner were all producing wines from grapes grown on the hillsides around the Valley.

As the economy grew so did urban development, expanding from First Street to Second Street and, two years after the Chinatown fire of 1887, a new City Hall, designed by Theodore Lenzen, was constructed in the Plaza, and in 1893, a new Post Office on Market Street. During the 1880's three and four-story bank buildings were constructed on all four corners of Santa Clara and First streets. During this time, business moved south from Santa Clara Street, spurred on by T.S. Montgomery who developed several large city blocks removing the older factories and shops south of San Carlos.

As the City expanded so did the infrastructure. By 1881, several private companies operating from different locations around the City provided electricity. In the same year J.J. Owen, owner of the San Jose Mercury was instrumental in having a light tower constructed at the corner of Market and Santa Clara streets. Electric arc lamps that had replaced the gas lamps were replaced in 1912, with incandescent lights on the downtown streets.

Automobiles were first seen in the Valley in 1890's, with the State's first auto manufacturing, garage and gas station established in San Jose by the turn of the century. The first "garage" was opened by Clarence Letcher in 1900 followed by his first gas station in 1902. The first motor bus line in the state began service from San Jose to Mt. Hamilton in 1910. It was then possible to take the bus to the San Jose Country Club established in 1899, on Alum Rock Avenue.

The first regularly scheduled radio station started in San Jose in 1909, when Dr. Charles Harold broadcast from his offices at the araden City Bank Bldg., at the corner of First and San Fernando streets. In addition to the first commercial broadcast, Harold is credited with opening a college to train radio engineers where he qualified over 1200 students by 1922. He is also credited with more than 50 inventions during his career. His wife Sybil is credited with being the first disc jockey playing recorded music over the air.

Development continued throughout the City. Most of the vacant lots were filled with houses or small commercial buildings during the 1880's. The Hensley property was divided in 1886, as was College Park off the Alameda followed by the subdivision of General Naglee's estate in 1902 and Hanchett Park in 1907. During this period, the City annexed the Gardiner District and the City of East San Jose in 1911, and a year later an unusual annexation was the 100 foot wide strip of land along N. First Street connecting San Jose to the Port of Alviso.

Evaluation of the Chiechi House for Landmark eligibility;

The Chiechi House is considered within the Horticultural Expansion era, 1870-1918 and specifically the period 1870-1973 when the building was relocated to History Park. The theme is Residential Architecture.

In 1973 the Chiechi House was accepted by the San Jose City Council as a fine example of mid-1870s residential architecture to be installed in History Park (San Jose Historical Museum). At that time, the building was considered to be a City Landmark and is an artifact in the City's historic collection.

The Chiechi House in History Park meets the criteria of Chapter 14.48

The Chiechi House is a very good example of the National Style, found in a semi-rural residential architecture of the 1870s. It is associated with the beginning of the Horticultural Expansion era in San Jose. Agriculture was the basis for economic growth during the years 1870-1919. The association with the era is seen in the architectural style and the construction materials and craftsmanship of the house. Few houses of this style remain in San Jose and of those that do, alterations have changed the appearance.

The Chiechi House also meets the criteria of Chapter 13.48 A 2.a and A.2.e.

The Chiechi House in History Park exhibits a distinctive early American style in the National Style of architecture. The house has yielded information about the living conditions and type of houses constructed in the 1870s. The building continues to provide information about early San Jose residential buildings, the materials used and how they were constructed.

The Chiechi House in History Park further meets the criteria of Landmark because it represents the story of two emigrant families who settled in San Jose and contributed to the growth and culture of the community. It was also the home of Dr. Matilda Campbell one of the early women physicians in San Jose, who opened a care homes for her elderly patients.

Conclusions- Statement of Significance: The Chiechi House is eligible to be a San Jose Historic Landmark because it exhibits Early American architecture in the National Style, and is one of the very few that remain in the area, also the building retains a high degree of integrity. Of the over 200 City Landmarks, very few are from the Early American era and none are examples of the National Style from the mid-1870s.
