Key Insights (Last Updated 5/1)

1. As of data up to April 27, the greatest city-wide compliance continues to be on Sunday April 5 (~41% leaving home). In the three weekends since this point, compliance has steadily worsened. The following are the percentages leaving home for four consecutive weekends:

- Saturdays - April 4 (~45%) to April 11 (~51%) to April 18 (~51%) to April 25 (~51%)
- Sundays - April 5 (~41%, peak) to April 12 (~44%) to April 19 (~48%) to April 26 (51%)

Although there was not a significant shift in compliance on the past three Saturdays, the rate of compliance on Sundays has gone from noticeably better than Saturdays to the same as Saturdays. It is now more apparent that Sunday compliance behavior is relaxing, and increased outreach/enforcement may be needed.

2. With the addition of districts in the dashboard, we can now analyze the at-home behavior at more localized levels. The following categorizes whether a specific district has been below or above San Jose's average compliance since shelter-in-place:

- Above Average Compliance: District 1, District 4, District 8, District 10
- Nearly Average Compliance: District 2, District 6, District 7 District 9
- Below Average Compliance: District 3, District 5

The below average districts have the most movement outside of the home and are potential areas to focus more outreach/support measures.

Feeding the County – Success Stories

#FoodHeroes have become just as important as First Responders - they are Direct Responders

“I feel that I am doing my part to serve our community,” said Irma Martinez, a 15-year cafeteria veteran at Dorsa Elementary in East San José. “Kids see me and they smile at a familiar face. I see them and it makes me feel good because we have a relationship with these children. It is a win-win situation for everyone involved.”

Food delivery drivers start their day at 6:00 AM, load up their vehicles, then hit the road to reach up to 355 clients within their 9-10 hour shifts. We spoke with Lisa Jackson from TRIO Community Meals, who shared with us that since the outbreak of the pandemic, the number of seniors their drivers visit in a week has increased from an average of 800 to nearly 1400.

"Drivers are not just providing nutritious meals, they are also checking in on clients, making sure they are well and healthy," explained Peggy Edge, a meal delivery driver turned meal recipient when the County order forced her to shelter in place since mid-March.

- Building Permit Extensions

- Title 24 of the Municipal Code allows Building Official to extend building permits for 180 days for circumstances beyond the control of the permittee that have prevented progress; plus

- Planning permits expire after 2 years
- Code allows 2 one-year extensions through permit adjustment (administrative) process
- Recommendation to eliminate adjustment process, and either:
  - 1) authorize Director to grant unlimited one-year extensions if permittee demonstrates that special, unusual circumstances exist; or
  - 2) change expiration of permit from 2 years to 4 years
- Bring Ordinance change to Council in early August
