Dear community of San Jose, and city govt.,

To practice, how to offer, a good minded, public service announcement.

I hope, at this point, in mid- November, we are all becoming clear - that even as, the vaccine process, seems to be developing, in many parts of the world, at this time,

There still may be, an expected rise, in Covid-19 cases, throughout the winter.

And that, we are going to have to work hard, so that, the previous, 90-100 deaths, a week, across the S.F. Bay Area, may only grow, to a minimum amount, of 130-140 a week, this fall and winter.

For all our efforts and worry, at this time - this means, to please continue, to use caution & safe practices, all through the fall and early winter, here in San Jose, and the Bay Area.

Continue to trust, how physical distancing, the simple ask of a person's health, washing your hands with soap, and the use of a mask, can be of much help.

Sincerely,
Blair Beekman.
