

Save our local restaurants - extend Al Fresco Dining

Alison Poetsch <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 1:10 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Alison Poetsch

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Support San Jose Al Fresco Program

Bonnie Mace [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:20 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Mace
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Save our Restaurants

Christopher Anderson <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 1:21 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Christopher Anderson

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Al Fresco Program

Dave Galetto

Thu 3/11/2021 1:28 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Dave Galetto

The San Jose Al Fresco program

Arthur Browning [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:31 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Arthur Browning
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Mayor's message

Alex Milutin <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 1:33 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Alex Milutin

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Extend al fresco dining to a permanent term!

David Neale [REDACTED] >

Thu 3/11/2021 1:34 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

David Neale

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

San Joe Al Fresco program

Carl San Miguel [REDACTED] >

Thu 3/11/2021 1:35 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Carl San Miguel

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco

Danny E [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:36 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Danny E
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Please Consider This!!!

Alex Schettine <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 1:37 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Alex Schettine

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

San Jose Al Fresco Forever!

Amanda Llerena [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:41 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Amanda Llerena
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco Program

Bob Linscheid [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:41 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Bob Linscheid
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended

Jon Ball [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:43 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Jon Ball
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Please help restaurants

Lieu Bach [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:44 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Lieu Bach
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Restaurants

Jonathan Wolf [REDACTED] >

Thu 3/11/2021 1:46 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Wolf

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Small Business Support

Jeff Kramer [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:47 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Jeff Kramer
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Extend Al Fresco Program

Maira Ceja <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 1:49 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Maira Ceja

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Small business

Patricia Mize

Thu 3/11/2021 1:58 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Patricia Mize

Extend the Al Fresco Program

Patti Rice <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 1:59 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Patti Rice

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Vote to extend the al Fresco program

Joanne Burgherr [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 1:59 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Joanne Burgherr
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Extend the San Jose AI Fresco program

Maria Nicolacoudis <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:05 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose AI Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the AI Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Maria Nicolacoudis

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

San Jose Alfresco

Beth Hankoff [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:05 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Beth Hankoff
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Please extend the Al Fresco program.

John Benvenuto [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:07 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

John Benvenuto
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco Program

Peter Friedman [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:08 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Peter Friedman
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Open Outdoor Dining!

jeff Etherington <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:10 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

jeff Etherington

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Support SVO action for restaurants

Richard Santos <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:12 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Richard Santos

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

I agree - expand on and grow outdoor dining; and don't make it complicated or expensive - just let them do it while maintaining safety for customers.

David Peterson <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:12 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

David Peterson

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Take action to help our local restaurants

Philip Dieter <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:16 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Philip Dieter

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Support San Jose Al Fresco Program

Tim Boothe [REDACTED] >

Thu 3/11/2021 2:18 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Tim Boothe

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Save Small Businesses

Thao Pham <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:19 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Thao Pham

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

extending el fresco dining

sandi bolton [REDACTED] >

Thu 3/11/2021 2:22 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

sandi bolton

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Save our Restaurants

Tiffany Fournier <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:23 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Fournier

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Support restaurants and extend the Al Fresco program!

Denyse Cardozo <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:23 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Denyse Cardozo

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Support restaurants & extend the Al Fresco program

Patricia Cardozo [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:25 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Patricia Cardozo
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

San Jose Al Fresco program

Susan Bunce [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:25 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Susan Bunce
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Support restaurants extend the Al Fresco program!!

Emily Monk <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:27 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Emily Monk

Extend San Jose Al Fresco

Garrett Perez <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:27 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Garrett Perez

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

OPENING OUR ECONOMY

frank deturris <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:27 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

frank deturris

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco Dining Allowance extension

Ray Hashimoto [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:28 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Ray Hashimoto
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Silicon Valley Chamber Coalition Action Center

ALI ROOHI <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:28 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

ALI ROOHI

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Save Our Local Restaurants

Stephen Ngo <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:28 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Stephen Ngo

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Re-open our economy

Gregg Fisher <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:30 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Gregg Fisher

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco San Jose

ASHLYN RAE <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:31 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

ASHLYN RAE

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco Program

Casey Quisol [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:33 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Casey Quisol

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Support 3.3

Tom Robinson [REDACTED]

Thu 3/11/2021 2:35 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Tom Robinson
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Al Fresco Extension

Tim Beaubien <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:35 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Tim Beaubien

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

What is the other option?

Alex Diels <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:35 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Alex Diels

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Extending the Al Fresco program

Candelaria Bui <[REDACTED]>

Thu 3/11/2021 2:36 PM

To: Agendadesk <Agendadesk@sanjoseca.gov>

[External Email]

Dear Clerk City Clerk,

Please vote to support Mayor Sam Liccardo's budget message (agenda item 3.3). I heard from the Silicon Valley Organization that one of the Mayor's budget priorities is to support small business resiliency. In particular, the San Jose Al Fresco program should be extended to let restaurants/small businesses expand their operations outdoors in a safe and responsible manner.

The COVID-19 pandemic has devastated restaurants and small businesses. The road to recovery will be a very long and arduous one, but we can give restaurants & small businesses a chance to earn their own income by extending the Al Fresco program.

According to the California Restaurant Association, 60% of restaurants in the state are owned by people of color. Restaurants are where minorities find their path to upward mobility. They are where families can share the food of their homeland country and earn a living with a degree of dignity. By supporting restaurants and small businesses, we can prevent local workers from falling into abject poverty and potentially homelessness through increased job security instead of layoffs.

Please do the right thing and support Mayor Liccardo's budget message to prioritize small business resiliency and to help them survive this pandemic. We won't have an equitable economic recovery if we are leaving our restaurants/small businesses behind.

Sincerely,

Candelaria Bui

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]